 - I have been physically present in the U.S. for at least 30 months out of the past 5 years as a green card holder (or 18 months out of the past 3 years, if I am married to and living with a U.S. citizen).
 - I have lived in the state or USCIS district where my application has been filed at least 3 months before I apply.
- Good Moral Character
 - I can show that I have behaved in a legal and acceptable manner during my 5 years as a green card holder (or 3 years if I am married to and living with a U.S. citizen).

- Examples of not having good moral character may include working without paying taxes; suffering from alcoholism; not paying child support; lying to immigration authorities; being arrested for any reason; or being convicted of a crime.

Application Fees

- I have submitted and paid the required application and fingerprint fees along with supporting documents

Exam and Interview

- I have demonstrated, through a naturalization exam and interview, an attachment to the principles and ideals of the U.S. Constitution. I have successfully completed both the civics and English language components of the naturalization exam.

Oath of Allegiance

- I have sworn an oath of allegiance to the U.S. at a citizenship ceremony.

- Note: Children under the age of 18 may be able to receive citizenship through their naturalized parents without going through many of the above steps.

How do I Become a U.S. Citizen?

There are three main ways to become a U.S. citizen

- Citizenship by Birth – If you were born in the U.S. or its territories, you generally get automatic U.S. citizenship.
- Acquired Citizenship – If you were born abroad and one or both of your parents were U.S. citizens at the time of your birth, you generally get automatic U.S. citizenship.
- Naturalization – If you were born abroad to non-citizen parents, you must meet certain requirements and take certain steps to become a U.S. citizen.

I Heard There Will Be a New Naturalization Exam. What Are the Changes to the Exam?

A redesigned exam will be used starting in October 2008.

Applicants taking the new exam will undergo an interview during which they must successfully:

- Answer 6 out of 10 civics questions (covering various areas including U.S. history and government); and
- Complete an oral, reading, and writing test on the English language.

Below are a few sample civics questions from the new exam:

- What did the Declaration of Independence do?
- What is the economic system in the U.S.?
- What is the last day you can send in federal income tax forms?

How Do I Know If I Take the Current or New Naturalization Exam?

Which exam you take depends on when you applied for naturalization and when your interview is scheduled:

- I applied or will apply before October 1, 2008 and my naturalization interview is scheduled for before October 1, 2008
 - You must take the current exam.
- I applied or will apply before October 1, 2008 and my interview is scheduled for after October 1, 2008.
 - You can choose between the current and new exam.
- I will apply on or after October 1, 2008
 - You must take the new exam.

Do I Have to Take the Naturalization Exam in English?

Generally, yes. Most applicants are required to pass both the civics and language sections of the exam in English. However, if you are over a certain age, there are more lenient requirements. See below:

Age	# of Years with Green Card	Civics Test	English Test
Over 50 years old	At least 20 years	May be taken in language of choice	Not Required
Over 55 years old	At least 15 years	May be taken in language of choice	Not Required
Over 65 years old	At least 20 years	May take simpler version of test in language of choice	Not Required

I Heard That Naturalization Fees Have Increased. What are the New Fees?

Fees recently rose from $350 to $595 per application. In addition, fingerprinting fees increased from $70 to $80. As fees might change again, please contact USCIS or FIRN to make sure you pay the right amount.

I Have Applied to Naturalize But My Application Has Been Pending For Over a Year. Why Is This Happening and Is There Anything I Can Do About It?

Many immigrants applying for naturalization have experienced serious delays for a variety of reasons. One reason is due to a recent increase in the number of naturalization applications submitted to USCIS which has slowed down the agency's ability to process applications quickly. In addition, many applications have been delayed because of criminal and security background checks.

If you have encountered significant delays in your naturalization application due to security-related background checks, there are certain steps you may be able to take to speed up your application. Please contact an immigration counselor at FIRN for assistance. We also encourage you to contact FIRN at (410) 992-1923 or firnonline.org if you are experiencing unusual delays.

Gaining citizenship in a new country is a rite of passage for many immigrants. As a citizen in the U.S., you have the right to fully participate in elections, bring certain family members into the country, and even run for elected office. While there are benefits to becoming a U.S. citizen, often obstacles exist for many immigrants. Lack of information about changes in laws and benefits can prevent many from obtaining citizenship. This guide answers basic questions about how to become a U.S. citizen, recent changes in naturalization procedures, and particular issues that immigrants may encounter in the process.
